

New company

For a table that half-knows each other. The gentlest set — easy ways in, nothing that puts anyone on the spot.

HOW IT GOES

- Light the candle. Phones away. Pick the set that fits your table.
- Take turns reading a question aloud. Answer, or pass — no one is pressed, no one is cross-examined.
- Work down the list at your own pace; the lighter questions come first.
- When someone is ready to end the evening, they call the last question — always the same one.
- Everyone answers, and you blow the candle out together.
- Tomorrow night, light it again and carry on where you left off.

THE QUESTIONS

- 01 What's a place you'd go back to tomorrow?
- 02 What did a perfect ordinary day look like when you were ten?
- 03 What's something everyone should try at least once?
- 04 What's a small luxury you'd never give up?
- 05 What's something you could happily talk about for an hour?
- 06 What's the best thing you've read, watched, or heard lately?
- 07 What's a skill you have that surprises people?
- 08 A free week and no plans — where would you go?
- 09 What's something you've completely changed your mind about?
- 10 What are you glad you tried, even if it didn't work out?
- 11 What do you want to get better at this year?
- 12 What's the best decision you've made this year?

THE LAST QUESTION, ALWAYS

What's one small thing that made today better?

WHAT WAS SAID BY THE CANDLE STAYS BY THE CANDLE.
